Dianne Darr Coutts

Dianne Darr Coutts is a retired high school English and French teacher and survivor of childhood sexual abuse and institutional abuse. As a board member of Missionary Kid (MK) Safety Net, Dianne is a speaker at conferences and in churches about abuse in religious settings. Her book, Things Fell Apart, But the Center Held, is her story of an extraordinary childhood, rich with wonderful experiences, juxtaposed with sexual, emotional and spiritual abuse.

Dianne is married to Bud, a retired minister. They have three married children and seven grandchildren.

Dale and Faith Ingraham

Dale Ingraham graduated from Practical Bible Training School in Johnson City, NY in 1983. After serving as a pastor for almost 40 years, he now works full-time in the ministry of Speaking Truth in Love. He is the author of Tear Down This Wall of Silence, and also serves on the board of MK Safety Net US.

Faith Ingraham is a survivor of childhood sexual abuse, and has been serving with her husband in pastoral ministry since 1984. She is an author, speaker, life coach and strong advocate against domestic violence and abuse.

David Nally

Deputy David Nally is with the Knox County Sheriff's Office, where he serves full time in their patrol division. In addition to working as an office liaison to the Amish and Plain Communities of Knox County, Deputy Nally is the school resource officer for the East Knox School District, where he has the opportunity to proactively police by positively mentoring students in grades K through 12.

Deputy Nally has been a deputy sheriff in Ohio for 26 years, and has lived and served in Holmes, Coshocton and Knox Counties. Each of those counties have Amish and Mennonite populations that Deputy Nally has had a personal and professional opportunity to work, and interact with. Deputy Nally also enjoys his friendships among Amish populations in Geauga County, OH, Munfordville, KY, and Clymer, NY, often staying in their homes when he travels.

Jessica Williams

Jessica Williams works with Trumbull County Children Services as an Assessment Supervisor. In addition to supervising a team of Assessment Caseworkers, Jessica mentors University Partnership Interns from YSU, who also hope to have careers in child welfare. Jessica is also part of community organizations, including The Trauma Informed Committee of Trumbull County and serves on the Board for COMPASS Family and Community Services. She aims to educate the community that social work is based on building and strengthening families by addressing the root concerns.

Darleen Shope

Darleen Shope, MSSA, LISW-S, is the Supervisor of Investigations and Assessment at Trumbull County Children Services. She has 34 years of experience in the field of child welfare, with expertise in sexual and physical abuse investigations and Differential Response. She is an alumnus of the National Child Welfare Workforce Leadership Academy for Middle Managers. Darleen provides training to new caseworkers, law enforcement, social services and other professionals on various topics related to investigations, child abuse, neglect and Differential Response.

Darleen served on Ohio's Differential Response Leadership Council as Co-chair and was the lead for Trumbull County. She is a past member of the Ohio Differential Response Implementation and Practice Advancement Team. She was trained in Forensic Interviewing through the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children. Darleen is a coordinator for Trumbull County's Child Assault Prosecution Team, and a certified trainer through the Ohio Child Welfare Training Program.
